

EISENHOWER CONFERS WITH ADM. STUMP

About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHY E.

Herman Towle Reminiscences of Visit To Theda Bara Home

THE VAMP! Herman Towle of the Palace Clothing House, who recently told the Saline County Historical society about the Harrisburg square 75 years ago, reminisced further.

Mr. Towle told of a trip to Cincinnati and of visiting Theda Bara, the famous vampire of the early silent screen.

Only Theda was just a kid then—and didn't make too much impression on Mr. Towle.

It was coincidental that Mr. Towle related the story on Tuesday night of last week to the historical society, and Miss Bara died two days later. She was 64 at the time of her death.

It was in 1905, he said, that he and his partner, Harry Harper, made the trip. The two just a short time before had become partners in the clothing business and had put their store where the Rainbow drug store is located. The partner, Mr. Harper, continued to travel for the Cincinnati clothing manufacturers, the Ochs-Goodman Co.

They made trips to Cincinnati occasionally to buy clothing for their store here. They paid $3.75 for suits they sold here for $5.00, $5.50 for suits they sold for $7.50 and $7.50 for suits they sold for $10.

On the 1905 trip together they were invited by Mr. Goodman, the co-owner, to have dinner at his house that evening. Mr. Towle was a bit reluctant to go, saying that he was afraid he'd spill something or knock something over at the ritzy home.

"Oh, come on, let's go and get some of the rust off," said Mr. Harper, and the two accepted the invitation.

Daughter in the household was a 14-year-old lass named Theodosia Goodman. She was around during the dinner and did some of the serving. And it was Theodosia who later turned out to be the first vampire of the moving picture screen—Theda Bara.

Also, Mr. Towle remembered, he knickered over a glass of water during the dinner, just as he figured he might do.

Next day the other co-owner of the plant, Mr. Ochs, invited the two to the City club for luncheon and the Harrisburg men accepted. "In leaving," Mr. Towle continued, "Harry fell over a cuspidor and I said to him, 'Well, we're getting the rust off all right!'"

Mr. Towle related that several years afterwards he saw Theda Bara in her first vampire role in the movie, "A Fool There Was," where the A&P grocery now is situated.

HUMOR DEPT.: Prosecutor—Now tell the jury the truth, madam. Why did you shoot your husband with a bow and arrow?

Defendant—I didn't want to wake the children.

PARTING SHOT: The Supreme Court of the United States gives a man a right to open his wife's mail but it doesn't give him the courage.

Injured in Auto-Truck Crash

J. O. Rush of Golconda was injured early today when his auto figured in a collision with a Hayes truck on Routes 45 and 34. He was taken to the Lightner hospital. State Policeman Curtis Alexander and City Patrolmen Isham Threest and Paul Abney investigated the crash. They said that Rush, on Route 34, pulled out into the path of the truck, going south on Route 45.

Southern Illinois Editorial Ass'n to Meet at SIU April 22-23

VIRDEEN, Ill.—The Southern Illinois Editorial association will open a two-day meeting Friday, April 22, at Southern Illinois university, according to Louis Hoeflin, publisher of the Virdeen Recorder and president of the association. Principal speakers will be Ward Ross V. Randolph of Southern Illinois Penitentiary, Menard, and Andre Mouton, Chicago, who will address the association's annual banquet at Giant City State Park lodge. He is a representative of the Board of Commissioners of the Port of New Orleans.

Rev. Charles Brannum, Eldorado Daily Journal columnist, has been challenged to serve as moderator of an all-women panel on "Tips to Men on How to Write a Good Column." Charles Clayton of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat will present a plaque to the winner of the association's Blue Ribbon Weekly contest.

Bradford Oil Supply Opens Formally

OIL REPORT:

Five Wells Completed in Eldorado Oil Field; Dry Hole in Tale

From Jerry Robertson's
Tri-State Oil Report

Five oil wells and one dry hole comprised the completions in the Saline county oil picture during the period ending April 14. The wells were all in Eldorado township, the dry hole in Tale.

Inland Producers brought in the Don Vinyard Communized No. 1 inside the city of Eldorado with initial production of 542 barrels per day on flow from the Waltersburg. This well is 388 feet north and 300 feet east of SW NE NW, 21-8-7e.

Elect Student Council Officers At High School

Avah Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brose Phillips; Charles Cummins, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cummins; Judy Franks, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Franks Jr.; and Bryan Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubra Jones, were elected the 1955-56 officers of the Student Council at the Harrisburg Township high school in a school election Friday.

Avah Phillips was elected president; Charles Cummins, vice president; Judy Franks, secretary; and Bryan Jones, treasurer. Class representatives and alternates were also elected Friday and they are as follows: Sophomore representative, Kendall McDonald; alternate votes are to be recounted; junior alternate and representative, Jim Cummins and Joan Seright; and senior representatives, Ron Williams and Dorothy Hanning.

Other candidates who were entered in the election were president, Diane Mathis; secretary, Norma McDonald; treasurer, Marlene Dann; Jane Davis, Barbara Barnes, and Janice Gidcomb; sophomore alternate and representative, Eddie Quade, Roger Wiley, Billy Endsley; junior alternate and representative, Mary Jane Gibbons and Bill Bottomley; and senior representatives, Dorothy Schneider, Judy Godard, John Baker, and Paul Dann. Students who served as managers for the officers were Carroll Clark, Judy Morse, Richard Baldwin, Carolyn Herron, Barbara Dunn, Judy Belt, and Janice Phelps. In a general assembly Friday, the managers gave campaign speeches for their candidates, telling their candidates' qualifications for being elected into office. All the candidates were introduced to the student body before the elections were held in the home-rooms.

Charles Polk, Carroll Clark and Judy Belt have served this year as Student Council officers. H. B. Bauman is the sponsor of the HTHS Student Council.

W. C. McBride's C. H. Burnett No. 3, SW NE NW, 15-8-7e, made an oil well in the Waltersburg with initial production 222 barrels per day on flow after hydraulic fracture.

Drill Abney Test
Carter Oil's Ernest H. Patton No. 2, NW NE NW, 14-8-7e, made a well in the Waltersburg with initial production 216 barrels per day on pump.

Inland's and McBride's Clyde Koker, SW NE SW, 11-8-7e, made a well in the Waltersburg with initial production 203 barrels per day on flow after fracture.

Other activity for the period ending April 14:
Donald Foote's Grover Abney No. 1, NW NE NW, 8-9-6e, (Harrisburg Township) was drilling under the surface with ten inch pipe set to 56 feet.

Foote's May Community No. 1, 400 feet south and 300 feet west of NE SE NE, 34-8-6e, (Raleigh) was moving in cable tools to test the Waltersburg at 2045-54. A one hour drill stem test at 2115-55 gassed in eight minutes, recovering 225 feet of clean oil, 115 feet of mud cut oil, and 110 feet of oil cut mud, bottom hole pressure 725.

Flow Test Nona Carder 2.
Olen D. Sharp's C. O. Whitlock No. 1, NW SW SW, 28-8-6e, was drilling at 2556.

McBride's Nona Carder No. 2, SW NE SE, 10-8-7e, was on flow, testing the Waltersburg. It flowed 222 barrels of oil an hour after fracture.

McBride's C. O. Flanders No. 2, SE NE SE, 10-8-7e, was shut down for permit after setting 10 inch pipe to 73 feet.

McBride's Harry Flanders No. 4, SE SE SE, 10-8-7e, was waiting on cement for a squeeze in the Waltersburg at 2106-49.

McBride's Harry Flanders No. 6, NE SE SE, 10-8-7e, was waiting on cement to set five and a half inch casing through the Hart Springs.

Walter Duncan's Pankey No. 2, SW NE SW, 11-8-7e, awaited cable tools to test the Hart Springs.

John Stelle Associates' Plumlee-Peabody Coal Community Unit No. 1, NE NE NW, 15-8-7e, was on flow testing 22 feet of saturation in the Waltersburg. Perforated, it flowed 11 barrels of oil an hour natural. Fractured, it was being tested.

Await Cement
J. D. Turner's A. J. Tison Heirs No. 1, SE SE SW, 15-8-7e, was waiting on cement to set five and a half inch casing through the Waltersburg.

George and Wrathe's High School Community Unit No. 1, 310 feet south and 400 feet west of NE NE SW SE, 16-8-7e, awaited cable tools to test the Waltersburg at 2135-70.

Sanders-Fye's Moore No. 1, SW NE SW, 16-8-7e, was drilling at 2399.

J. M. Roberts' J. H. Butler No. 2, SW SE SW, 17-8-7e, was cleaning out and testing the Palestine at 1927-54.

Wife Identifies Circus Clown as Missing Mate

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—An executive who gave up the presidency of a Rochester, N. Y., paint firm to work as a $25 a week clown in a one-ring circus, went into temporary seclusion today with his wife.

The man, Rufus K. Dryer, 46, president of the Clark Paint, Oil and Glass Co., of Rochester, returned here with his wife, Harriet, Friday night and both refused to talk about his two-month absence. Police picked up Dryer at Pensacola, Fla., on a tip from a family friend two days ago and his wife flew there to identify him as her husband who had been missing since he went on an errand Feb. 8 but failed to return.

Dryer, playing the part of a white rabbit in an Alice in Wonderland sequence, as a circus performer, said he remembers nothing since leaving home.

Police at Pensacola said Dryer recognized his wife when she talked to him at the police station "but appeared to recall little else." His wife, however, said he had made withdrawals from several banks since leaving home.

Circus clown Danny Styron, who hired him in Tampa week ago, said Dryer told him he had been recommended to Styron by a tattoo artist in Rockford, Ill.

Styron said Dryer seemed "completely happy" as a circus clown and had done a competent job in his first performance.

Child of Former Local Woman is Brutally Attacked

The four-year-old daughter of a former Harrisburg girl today lay in critical condition in a Pontiac, Mich., hospital following a brutal attack on her by an 11-year-old boy.

She is Cynthia Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Montgomery. Mrs. Montgomery is the former Natalie Peak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Peak. They formerly lived in Dorris Heights but have resided in Pontiac the past several years.

It was learned that the little girl had left her home to walk over to the home of an aunt. She stopped where some children were playing and the boy took her to the basement of a house under construction and beat her into unconsciousness.

Reports were the boy used a board with a nail in it to flail her across the head and neck. She was still unconscious today and underwent surgery last night to attempt to relieve a brain concussion.

To Elect City Officers at Polls Tuesday

Voters to Select Mayor, Commissioners, Police Magistrate

A new city administration will be chosen by the voters of Harrisburg Tuesday.

To be named at the polls will be a mayor, four commissioners and a police magistrate who will guide the destinies of the city during four years beginning next month.

The candidates for the posts were chosen in the order in which they finished in the primary, a former mayor were chosen out of a field of three, eight nominees for commissioner were named out of a field of 23, and both candidates for police magistrate were nominated.

However, at present, there is but one candidate for mayor in the race—Claude Gibbons, local funeral director, Hudson Muggs, business man, also received nomination but about a week after the primary declared that although he was nominated, he should not be considered as a candidate because his physician advised him not to continue the race due to illness.

Eight Polling Places
The eight nominees for commissioner, in the order in which they finished in the primary, are Charles R. Hine, Sneed Jordan, Morris Denny, Ernest Duncan, Don Williams and Charles D. Taylor.

John Small and Charles McKenzie, the nominees for police magistrate, finished in a tie in the primary battle.

The city polling places by wards:
1—City hall.
2—Humm Motor Co.
3—Cummins Building.
4—Franks Bottling Co.
5—Leo Richmond's.
6—Soward's Harley-Davidson shop.

7—Highway garage, Dorrisville.
8—City hall, Gaskins City.
Eldorado, today is electing a mayor, four commissioners and a police magistrate and in addition is voting on the wet-dry question. Running for mayor are the incumbent, John D. Upchurch, and Carl Johnson.

Announce Judges, Clerks for City Election Tuesday

McLeod Charges Corsi Refused to Take Supervision In Refugee Relief Program

By United Press

Congressional investigators studied charges today that Edward J. Corsi, ousted State Department immigration specialist, was a "free-wheeler" who refused to accept supervision in his job.

State Department Security Chief R. W. Scott McLeod told a Senate judiciary subcommittee that Corsi, as a special adviser to the Secretary of State, tried to take over his (McLeod's) job as administrator of the refugee relief program.

McLeod said Corsi was "unwilling" to work under him and was "free-wheeling" around on immigration problems without specific authority of responsibility.

McLeod said he suggested to Corsi on March 18 that he either become his deputy administrator or "withdraw gracefully and with dignity" from his job.

The subcommittee is investigating the administration of the refugee program and Corsi's sudden dismissal. Corsi will present his side of the argument at Wednesday's subcommittee session.

In earlier statements, he accused McLeod of "sabotaging" the program and of helping make it a "scandalous failure."

Other congressional news:
Rocket Launchers: House investigators said they will try to find out next week who at the Pentagon told the Air Force to award a contract for rocket launchers without following regular low-bid procedure.

The contract for 100,000 launchers went to Century Industries Corp., San Pedro, Calif., for $3,662,000. But Cincinnati manufacturer James Knobel and Chicago manufacturer Knote Petersen, said they were denied chances to bid on the order. Both wanted to submit lower bids.

Grain: William G. Herron, chairman of the board of a Los Angeles firm, denied a charge that he intimidated a government official in seeking to land a contract to build grain elevators in Pakistan. But Herron said he did warn Howard P. Morrison, project manager on the Pakistan deal for the Foreign Operations Administration, he might be investigated by Congress if he rejected all bids on the project before the Senate Investigating Subcommittee began an inquiry. The firm had submitted the highest bid.

Loan Rates: Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said he will urge the Secretary of Agriculture to reconsider "unrealistic interest rates" charged on emergency disaster loans to farmers by the Farmers Home Administration. FHA revealed on inquiry Friday that it raised its interest rates last Jan. 3 from three to five per cent.

Proxies: Sen. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.) proposed that the Senate Banking Committee conduct an "exhaustive study" of methods used in stockholders' proxy fights to gain control of big corporations. He said such fights are becoming more frequent and employing "questionable and perhaps illegal tactics."

Former Soviet Officers Accept Reunion Bid

MOSCOW (U.P.)—Two Soviet generals and seven former officers accepted today the invitation of a Chicago veteran to come to Washington to celebrate the linkup of U. S. and Soviet forces on the Elbe River on April 25, 1944.

The invitation came from Joseph Polowsky, a former private who was among the 91 American soldiers present at this historic moment of World War II. The answer came from nine of the Red Army fighting men also present.

The reunion is set for Washington if the U. S. government approves. The U. S. Embassy said today the nine former officers had not applied for visas.

Pravda, the official Communist Party newspaper, brought the nine Russians together and gave approval of the project. Pravda wrote Pravda last month proposing the 10th anniversary meeting.

Pravda Says Yes
Pravda published the answer today in a long article on the Elbe anniversary.

The signers included Lt. Gens. J. V. Baklanov and N. I. Lyamin and seven other former officers ranging in rank from lieutenant to colonel. The generals were not further identified.

This was Russia's second acceptance of an informal invitation to send a delegation to the United States "little more than a month." The Soviet Foreign Ministry had given formal backing to the idea of a visit of farmers proposed by the Des Moines Register.

Third Trip Delayed
There was a delay in a third trip, that of a group of Soviet student editors who were booked aboard the Queen Elizabeth from Britain to New York this week. Their reservations were cancelled and the U. S. Embassy in Moscow said they had not picked up their visas.

Pravda said Polowsky was one of the members of an American patrol led by Lt. Albert Kotzebue of Houston, Tex., now a captain stationed on Okinawa with his family who were the first to meet the Soviet troops in Torgau, an Elbe River town.

Pravda quoted Polowsky's letter recalling the hopes for peace under the United Nations and expressing hope a reunion in Washington would revive those hopes with Americans and Russians meeting as friends.

Receives Briefing From Far East Naval Chief

Admiral Witnessed Tachen Evacuation In Supervisory Role

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (U.P.)—President Eisenhower will confer today with Adm. Felix B. Stump, who just returned from the Far East, over the touchy Formosan situation.

Stump, Commander in Chief of U. S. Naval Forces in the Pacific who returned to Washington two days ago, was asked to come to Augusta to brief the President on latest developments off the Red Chinese mainland.

The admiral recently was in Formosa and also witnessed the Tachen Island evacuation in a supervisory role.

"Expert" Role
Stump would fill the role of "expert" described by Sen. Walter F. George, powerful Democratic chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, after his conference with the President two days ago. George said the President would be prepared "by the best advice that our experts can give him" if he must make a decision on whether to defend Quemoy and Matsu just off the Red Chinese coast and defended by Chinese Nationalist troops.

Some prominent Republicans, including Sen. William F. Knowland of California and Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, have demanded that the President or the administration declare their intentions of the stand the United States will take if the Chinese Communists attack the offshore islands.

The Little White House announced that the situation "looks hopeful for eventual completion of a four-power peace treaty on Austria after Mr. Eisenhower talked by telephone with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Austria and Russia have announced agreement on future terms of the treaty.

Salk Vaccine
Dr. Chester Scott Keefe of Boston, special assistant for health and medical affairs to Welfare Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby, was appointed Friday to keep Mr. Eisenhower informed on the distribution of the Salk polio vaccine.

After his conference with Stump today, Mr. Eisenhower was expected to play a round of golf with Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist who captured the famous Masters Tournament here last Sunday, and Billy Joe Patton, Morgantown, N. C., amateur who played in both of the last two Masters Tournaments.

Miss Ann Hart Has Leading Roles in SIU Plays Here Monday

Miss Ann Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hart, former residents of Harrisburg who now reside in Carbondale, has the leading roles in the two plays, "Cinderella" and "The Cat and the Canary," to be presented Monday, April 18, in the Bonnell gymnasium at the Harrisburg Township high school.

The performances which will be given by Southern Illinois university students are under the sponsorship of the Saline County College club. "Cinderella" will be presented at 2:30 p. m., and the mystery, "The Cat and the Canary," at 7:30 p. m.

Miss Hart, whose mother is the former Ruth Shavitz, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shavitz, was born in Harrisburg. She is now a junior at SIU but attended Washington university, her freshman and sophomore years. Majoring in speech, she plans to enter television work upon graduation.

Rule Against Father Seeking $65,000 For Injury to Son

MONTICELLO, Ill.—A Piatt county circuit court jury took 2 1/2 hours Thursday to rule against a father seeking $65,000 damages from the driver of a car which injured his sleigh-riding son.

Dean McCartney, White Heath, filed the suit on behalf of his 11-year-old son, Dean Edwin, injured Jan. 2, 1952, when his sled was struck by a car driven by Dean Valentine, White Heath. The boy had coasted out of a drive onto the road.

Items of Agricultural Interest

Wanted: Youth for Agriculture

By JAMES G. CROSSLEY
NEA Staff Correspondent
CLEVELAND—(NEA)—Shortages of young men and women in farming are so great that 51 colleges and universities have banded
together to go out and enlist them.
And that doesn't mean farm hands.

At cap and gown time this spring
high school grads will be wooed
through a handsome 32-page booklet entitled "Careers Ahead."
Prepared by the staff of National Project in Agricultural Communications under chairmanship of Russell B. Dickerson of Penn State
the booklet aims to fill 15,000 jobs
a year. There are 500 occupations in eight major fields.

"WANTED—Young men and women with agricultural school
training for interesting, lucrative, secure jobs. Everything from flying crop dusters to fish wardens."
That's the story.

Research needs 1000 grads, agricultural industry another 3000.
There are 12,000 farm co-operatives in the country. Those companies and the others represent agricultural business need 3000.

Banks alone expect to employ 4000 to 6000 college graduates as farm agents in the next 10 years.
Every student who has been interested in education in the past 10 years has been absorbed into the teaching profession. There's a need for 3000 in the field of education this year.

Newsprinters, TV, radio, magazines—the communications field—
need 500 trained people each year.
Conservation, increasingly important, needs 1000. Services, such as inspection, regulation and grading, must have 1500.

On the farms themselves, though 200,000 young people go into service each year, there's an annual shortage of 2000 to meet the growing needs.
"Agriculture is a science, a business, a profession and an industry,"
is what the high school graduate
will be told. "To hit your mark
of success in any line of work, you must sight your target and aim carefully. But agriculture offers you a broad target. If you choose agriculture, it's hard to miss."
They are told. "Agriculture provides more jobs and careers in the city than on farms ... more jobs and careers than any other industry."

Some unusual statistics are cited. Of 62 million employed Americans 25 million work somewhere
in agriculture—about 40 per cent.
About 15 per cent of the population grows all the food and fiber
for the nation. The rest of the 40 per cent are the specialists who attend the farmer and serve his needs.

Since 1940, 35 per cent fewer farmers produced 44 per cent more food and fiber though the entire field was expanding.
In the nation's agricultural schools, 65 per cent of the students were city boys and girls. They,
along with their fellow graduates,
were looking forward to earning a statistical $72,000 more than the average high school graduate in their lifetimes.

Agricultural school undergraduates spend their first two years on basic subjects. After that they branch into their chosen specialties. These can be anything from selecting, displaying and pricing
produce for supermarkets to fur-farming.
Nothing could demonstrate the age of specialization which has swept into farming better than the man who has a thriving business

EARTH IN YOUTH'S HANDS is symbolized here in photo from booklet for high school seniors to recruit them into agriculture.

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's Staff.)

Sheep Shearing School

About 45 fledgling sheep shear-ers attended the two sheep shearing schools held during the last week in March at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station. Sheep producers may be interested in employing students from this and past schools to shear their flocks. Harry Russell, Dick Carlisle, and Dick Hollandbeck, instructors in the school, teach the students in the fleeces off in one piece in good condition with a minimum of effort and without harming the sheep.
The Big Freeze

The recent extremely cold weather
naturally did some damage
to winter cereals and to new clover and lespedeza seedlings. At the Dixon Springs Experiment Station,
winter cereals appeared to be affected less on soils of good fertility
than on the poorer soils. Damage also differed with varieties. The less upright varieties appear to be hurt least. In general, winter barleys were hurt less than winter
oats. Whether or not to reseed clover will depend upon how much the crop is harmed. Damage varied with date of seeding, method of seeding and amount of protective cover. Upon first inspection at the Station, it appears that little reseeding will be necessary.

Airplane Landing Strip

A landing strip for flying farmers and others is being laid out
at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station. A representative of the Department of Aeronautics visited
the Station to approve the project.
The strip should be ready for use about June 1.

Soil Moisture

This section will begin the current growing season with soil moisture conditions as favorable as at any time during the past three years. In most places moisture has reached depths of three to four feet. The 3 1/2 inch rain of March 20 and 21 caused considerable runoff that raised most ponds to spillway levels.

Forest Fires

The forestry crew and boys from the Shawnee camp were called out on two fires last week. Most fires are caused by carelessness on the part of somebody. All of us pay the cost of fire control with our tax dollars. Please be careful. The easiest fire to control is one that never starts.

Tree-Planting Demonstrations

Bob Nelson, extension forester,
reports that tree-planting demonstrations got under way this week
after several postponements due to bad weather. Watch for announcements of these demonstrations in your county.

Pine Thinning Completed

The forestry crew have finished their pine thinnings for this spring.
The result is nearly 5,000 new fence posts. These posts will be treated during the summer and will go into fence lines on the Station
during the coming year.

Location of Lamb Creeper

Young lambs will eat much better if the creep is in a well-lighted place. At the Station a two-sided creep feeder was located so that one side faced the open side of a shed. The other side was dark.
The lambs invariably cleaned out
the feed on the light side first.

Tetra Pectus Rye

You can prolong the rye grazing season by using tetra pectus rye in addition to balbo rye. George Mc-Kibben, station agronomist, reports that in variety trials balbo rye has been joined for some time while tetra pectus is still unjointed and rather flat growing. Incidentally,
tetra pectus shows little or no damage from the recent freeze, whereas much of the jointed balbo may have been killed.

Cull Low-Producing Sows from Herd

Low-producing sows cost hog raisers money in small litters, late litters and slow-gaining feeder pigs.
That's why you should cull out
the poor mothers, poor milkers and other low-producing sows often and well, says Richard Hollandbeck, livestock extension specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Now that you have the herd's
production records out for farrowing time, look them over and mark
low producers for an early trip to market.

Selection of a good boar will help to raise production. But a boar can never do the job alone. It takes continuous, year-round weaning out of low-producing sows to get top returns, says Hollandbeck.

Indians occupy almost 5,000,000 acres of land in New Mexico.

World's First Train Robbery

Jesse James staged the first train robbery on record. Far from being heroic, it was badly botched. The idea was not his, but that of another outlaw who got caught before he was able to carry out the plan. And Jesse ROBBED THE WRONG TRAIN! For a factual glance at the outlaw, read:

SIU Country Column

By Albert Meyer

When planting raspberries the next time for home use, try the purple variety, advises a horticulturist at Southern Illinois university. The Potomac is a good variety for the area and stays in the hills where it is planted better than some others.

The purple variety is a hybrid somewhere between the black and red varieties. It carries some of the flavor of both, and shows great growth vigor. It isn't as well known to most persons as the black or
red. The fruit is large but does not carry the glossy appearance of the black raspberry. As yet it is not very acceptable as a berry for the commercial market where it is more likely to be classed as "stale red" in color. It bears as heavily as either of the other kinds,
will stand drought fairly well because of its heavy stems and good
roots, and is not hindered by virus.

Raspberries ought to be planted
during the dormant stage between the time of leaf fall in the autumn
and the beginning of growth in the spring. Most are transplanted in early spring. It is more important to get them into the ground
before growth starts than it is to plow and work the soil well—providing, of course, there has been some type of cultivated crop on the plot during the preceding season.

Red and black raspberries should be planted at three-foot intervals
in rows six feet apart. The purple variety should be spaced four feet
in rows 8 feet apart.

Good care is important the first year after planting. There should be a heavy mulch of straw or manure
to keep down weeds and help preserve soil moisture. After each harvest old wood ought to be pruned out so that new growth may develop better for the next season's crop.

Red varieties—quite popular with many persons—multiply by sending up suckers from roots and do not stay in the hills as well as
do the black and purple varieties.
In making new plantings of red varieties the suckers with roots attached may be transplanted. Black and purple raspberries start new plants from the tips of shoots that have been covered with soil.

The most widely grown black variety is the Cumberland. Several kinds of red raspberries may be planted to extend the ripening period because varieties vary rather widely in ripening time. Sunrise is an early-maturing variety. Two other kinds, September and Indi-anna Summer, have been introduced. They produce fruit both in spring and in fall. The spring crop comes along later than the Sunrise variety.

Raspberries thrive best on soil
such as silt loam, that has a plentiful supply of organic matter and retains moisture well but does not get too heavy and wet. Hill ground is satisfactory if enough organic matter is added to aid the soil in holding moisture.

Cool hot foods before storing them in the refrigerator. Foods keep longer if they have plenty of space between containers for free
circulation of air around them.

able landing gear are the two extra legs with which this chicken

cal Institute of the University of Istanbul, Turkey.

Price Supports Help Keep Corn Prices Down

URBANA — Price supports for corn probably do as much to keep the price down as they do to keep it up, according to a farm
economist at the University of Illinois.

T. A. Hieronymus says overproduction of corn is not a serious problem. We've never had what you would call a "burdensome
surplus."

Our 1954 carryover of about 900 million bushels is the largest in recent years. It's only about 400 million over what would be "reasonable" stocks, Hieronymus explains, and compared with a total production of about 3,000 million bushels it isn't very large.

We have that much on hand,
the economist explains, because
corn prices were too high in relation to hog prices in 1952. Farmers cut back hog production, and since then we haven't had enough hogs to eat the corn. We will be rid of price-depressing corn stocks
when we feed them to hogs—and neither sooner nor later.

Hog numbers are catching up,
and we'll probably use more corn
this year than we produced in 1954, Hieronymus says.

But because of the carryover
the "short" crop won't cause prices
to go up very much. "We can never have a genuinely good corn
market until inventories are reduced to commercial levels," he says.

The most discouraging thing
about the corn market is the burdensome supply of wheat. In the long run all we can do with surplus wheat is to feed it—in competition with corn.

Hieronymus expects the 1955
corn carryover to be about 800
million bushels, which is just about what it was following the 1948 crop. Since then we have used as much corn as we have produced. In one year the carryover dropped as low as 486 million bushels, which Hieronymus calls
a "reasonable carryover."

See 37.5 Million Bushel Wheat Crop in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—Crop
reporters predict a 37 1/2 million
bushel Illinois wheat crop in 1955.
The State-Federal Crop Reporting Service announced the figure this week. It is 16 per cent below 1954, but 10 per cent above
the 1944-53 average.

The report said winter losses in Illinois were "moderate" and the wheat crop enters the spring plowing period "in significantly better than average condition."

Freezing weather late last month
caused "little or no" permanent damage to wheat, though it destroyed most of the Illinois peach
crop and seriously damaged apples,
the crop report said.

Farm experts said field work
has been slow getting under way
in Illinois but has moved along rapidly once started. Seeding of oats was reported near completion
in most central and southern areas.
The report said plowing for corn and soybeans is running ahead of schedule. Soil moisture conditions were said to be "decidedly better"
than they were a year ago.

A record high of 31,400,000 bushels of soybeans was reported stored on Illinois farms as of April 1—more than three times as large as a year ago and nearly 1 1/2 times the average for that date.

The crop report said farmers had 245 million bushels of corn on farms April 1, which compares with 249 million bushels a year ago and a 10-year average of 208 million.

Cut Rye for Silage in Early Heading Stage

Although the best use of winter
rye for dairy cattle is for late fall
and early spring grazing, you can make surplus winter rye from pasture into silage of a fairly satisfactory quality.

The right time to make rye into silage is relatively short, says K. A.
Kendall, dairy specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.
You can make rye silage by cutting the crop in the early heading-out stage and wilting it for two or three hours. Or you can cut from the standing crop when the seed
is in the late milk to early dough stage. If you wait until the late dough stage, you'll get a straw-like silage that is unpalatable and hard to preserve.

Preservatives like molasses or ground ear corn are easy to apply to grasses ensiled in an upright
silo. Kendall says you can add 150 pounds of ground ear corn or 50 pounds of molasses per ton. Since it's hard to get even distribution of preservatives in the stack or bunker type silo it is most important that rye be in the right stage
of development before ensiling.
For highest quality rye silage, chop the crop as fine as possible, and pack it thoroughly.

Sewing through sandpaper will sharpen a dull sewing machine needle.

New Way To Grow Better Vegetables

Home gardeners borrow a new scientific practice from professional growers. Vaporizing chemical covered in the soil two weeks before garden is planted kills nematodes and soil insects; often greatly improves crops. Inset: microscope photograph of nematode, eel-like worm which does great damage in gardens and fields.

Home gardeners are learning to recognize damage to plants caused by microscopic soil worms, called nematodes. Root crops such as carrots, beets, turnips, produce poorly and may be short, bushy, crooked, or forked. Cucumber and melon vines show injury by wilting in summer weather but reviving overnight, and yielding poorly. Tomato vines fail to develop well and bear few tomatoes.

Roots of injured plants often show galls or knots; may be thickened or decayed at rootlet tips. Scientists of The Dow Chemical Company, after studying hundreds of fields, say that nematodes are the cause of most so-called "sick" or "worm-out" cultivated land. Where nematodes are controlled, crops and vegetables grow better.

A clear, free-running liquid chemical which vaporizes when placed in the soil, a half cupful in seventy-five feet of row, gives home gardeners excellent control of these destructive microscopic pests.

RUDEMENT

Wonderful services were held here each night in our pre-Easter services.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson and son of Wood River spent the week
with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smith, Mrs. Madge Santy and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gurley.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Erickson and sons of Des Plaines visited their mother, Mrs. Nettie Langford,
over the week end.

The following visited Mr. and Mrs. Jim Howton and family during the Easter holiday: Mr. and

ing the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams of Rolla, Mo., visited his parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Williams,
over the Easter holidays.

A good way to remove mildew
from clothing is to add white vinegar to the wash water. Use the vinegar full strength for sponging
small articles or for spot cleaning.

Our sympathy is extended to the Hathaway family in its sorrow.
Mr. and Mrs. Lee DeNeal had as dinner guests Easter Rev. and Mrs. Bob Booten and children,
Mr. and Mrs. Roy DeNeal and son, Earl DeNeal.

Verdon Lambert of Peoria visited his mother, Mrs. Sadie Lambert, over the week end.
J. C. Bishop of Olive Branch visited Sunday night and Monday
with Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop

YIELD RESULTS

Pioneer won over half of all
first places for the three year
average of the Official Illinois
and Iowa State Corn Tests, conducted by the two state Universities as reported in the 1954 Official University Bulletins. Hundreds of different hybrid numbers entered by many different producers were tested
in these corn tests.

Pioneer set a new world's record in the 1954 Official Indiana Five Acre Corn Club
Contest with a yield of 241
bushels per acre.

SALES RESULTS

Farmers have ordered 160,000 more bushels
of Pioneer hybrid seed
corn this year than was
on order at this same time a year ago.

Farmers planted
440,000 more bushels
of Pioneer hybrid seed
corn in 1954 than they planted in 1952.

Cottage Grove Iris Flower Club Plans Picnic
The Iris Flower club of Cottage Grove Home Bureau unit met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Eugene Lamkin.

Seven members answered roll call by telling "a new flower for my garden." The group planned a picnic to be held at Pounds Hollow May 12.

Mrs. Ralph Bilman gave the lesson on "Trees, Shrubs and Woody Vines for Home Ground," and Mrs. Mable Alvey read the legend of the dogwood.

Present were Mrs. Dan Ludlow, Mrs. Mable Alvey, Mrs. Reuel Thaxton, Mrs. Eugene Lamkin, Mrs. Raymond Vineyard, Mrs. Ralph Bilman and Mrs. Wayne Stallings.
The hostess served salad and coffee.

El Paso Holds Man For Questioning In Detroit Slaying
EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — El Paso authorities held a 40-year-old man today at the request of Detroit, Mich., police for questioning about the brutal slaying of seven-year-old Barbara Gaca last month.

But, Detroit authorities said the suspect was "one of hundreds" being checked out in the little girl's slaying.
El Paso police said they arrested the suspect, who admits he has had several sex convictions and a long criminal record, for loitering in a downtown park and talking to a young girl.
They later released him and then re-arrested him at the request of Detroit authorities after it was learned he had been there at the time Barbara was raped and strangled.
The man carried a passport visa and had purchased a bus ticket for Guanajuato, Mexico. He said he was planning to leave El Paso Friday night for a visit with a girl he had met through a lonely hearts club.

Dust Continues To Plague Colorado
By United Press
Rainstorms hit both northern corners of the nation today, while dust continued to plague Colorado.

The rain was concentrated in the Northeast and the Pacific Northwest, but parts of Florida also had their April showers. At Vero Beach more than an inch of rain fell.

Blowing dust still was rampant over sections of Colorado, and more was in store for the state. It was felt most in southeastern Colorado, but weathermen said it would travel to eastern Colorado and northern New Mexico.
The central Plains had sunny, spring-like weather, but it was colder over the Great Lakes and the northern areas of the Plains states. The hottest point in the nation was Presidio, Tex.—98 degrees. The rest of Texas had temperatures of above 80, and the mercury reached into the 90s in areas of Kansas and Oklahoma.

The name "turnpike" for toll roads, arose from the type of gate used on early toll roads, a long pole studded with spikes.

Naomi Sunday School Class Members Create Hats
The Naomi Ruth Sunday school class of the Pankeyville Baptist church met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Blanche Lauderdale for the regular class social.

Mrs. Lauderdale, class president, was in charge of the meeting which opened with the group singing "May the Lord Depend on You." Mrs. Hattie Moyer gave the devotion reading from the first chapter of John. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Nancy Sadler.

Roll call was answered with a scripture verse containing the word "agony."
Special prayers were offered by Alta Norman, Betty Daniels and Gertrude Wasson for the revival which is to begin on Monday night, April 18, with the Rev. James Upchurch as evangelist. Bill Coker will be the song leader.

Miss Gertrude Wasson conducted the recreation which consisted of games played with hats. Each member had been asked to create and wear a hat to the social, and some proved to be very artistic and lovely as well as unusual. The hats were made of lamp shades, candy boxes, etc., with trimmings of flowers, ribbons, feathers, toilet tissue, and the pastor's wife had gone so far as to set a world globe on her creation.

Mrs. Lauderdale's hat was unusual as it was decorated with banners and pictures advertising the coming revival. The prize was awarded to Mrs. Ruth Gates.

Mrs. Nancy Sadler received a prize in the game "what's in the hat."

Further plans were made toward raising money to furnish a church kitchen.

Mrs. Lauderdale served delicious refreshments to the group.
The next social is to be at the home of Miss Gertrude Wasson at which time a baby show will be held. Mrs. Alta Norman will be in charge of the affair.

To Seek Death Penalty for Admitted Slayer
EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Vanderburgh County Prosecutor Paul Wever has announced he will seek the death penalty for Leslie Irvin, confessed slayer of six persons in a 15-week crime spree in this area.

Wever said he will demand a first-degree murder indictment and death in the electric chair for the parole violator when the county grand jury meets next Wednesday.

"I will not be a party to a deal for any lesser penalty," Wever said.

Irvin, 30, was arraigned on a murder charge Wednesday in the death of Evansville filling station attendant Wesley W. Kerr, 49, last December.

Irvin also admitted slaying three members of a Henderson, Ky., family, and two other persons here and in nearby Mt. Vernon, during robberies which netted him a total of less than $300.

Judy Belt, Charles Polk to Attend Student Council Convention
Judy Belt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Belt, and Charles Polk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Polk, will attend the 21st annual convention of the Illinois Association of Student Councils to be held April 21-23 at the Perre Marquette hotel in Peoria.

Mrs. Jane Pankey Elected President Of Woman's Club

The Carrier Mills Woman's club held its regular meeting in the lower room of the Masonic temple Monday evening.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p. m. by the president, Miss Carrie B. Wasson. The song "In the Garden" was sung by the entire group led by Mrs. Helen Gibson. Mrs. Loreli Jennings was the accompanist for the evening.

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Mrs. Jane Pankey, and the meditation was given by Mrs. Helen Gibson, the theme being "Keep the Sunshine," taken from Jude 1:21. Prayer was by Mrs. Addie Miller.

Communications were read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Jennings, and the minutes of the previous meeting were given by the recording secretary, Mrs. Blanche Whitney. Mrs. Mae Dallas gave the treasurer's report.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Jane Pankey; first vice, Mrs. Ruby Fife; second vice, Mrs. Velma Dallas; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Loreli Jennings; recording secretary, Mrs. Blanche Whitney; treasurer, Mrs. Gleda Miller.

Mrs. Thelma Storms, a new member, was welcomed into the club by the members.

The program chairman, Mrs. Mabel Channess, gave an interesting talk on radio, motion pictures and television. A highlight of the entertainment was a pantomime by Miss Lorna Dallas.

Delicious refreshments of pie, a variety of cookies, coffee and punch, and dainty cups filled with nuts and candy as favors were served by the following hostesses for the evening: Mrs. Jane Pankey, Mrs. Velma Dallas, Mrs. Loreli Jennings, Mrs. Addie Miller and Mrs. Mae Dallas.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, May 9, at 7:30 p. m. at which time the newly elected officers will be installed.

Railroad Claims Sabotage in 9-Car Deraiment

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The strikebound Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway's general manager today charged a nine-car deraiment of the road's only passenger train operating during the walkout was "definitely sabotage."

The official, Fred Whitmore, said there were only 15 or 16 persons aboard the Dixie Flyer passenger when it was derailed Friday eight miles south of here. Only three or four of the passengers suffered minor injuries.

"This is definitely sabotage and there is no doubt about it," Whitmore said.

Whitmore said "joints were removed from the track. Ankle bars and other track appliances were found adjacent to the track and the right of way. It could only have been done by railroad men or somebody acquainted with operations at the point where the track was disconnected."

Some 25,000 non-operating employees of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad and affiliated lines, including the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, have been on strike since March 14 in a contract dispute. The deraiment occurred a few hours after it was announced that 4,000 train crewmen would join the walkout at noon on Monday.

Honolulu Sends Donations to Dr. Salk

HONOLULU, T. H. (AP)—Honolulu, one of the hardest hit polio areas last summer, has sent Dr. Jonas Salk a check for $1,000—and two one dollar bills.

The $1,000 was given by the Hawaiian Pineapple Co. in behalf of its employees, and the dollar bills were donated by "a mother and father in an anonymous letter."

In a letter accompanying the check, Hawaiian Pineapple President Henry A. White said "It does in a most inadequate way express our appreciation for the years you (Salk) have devoted to the fight against polio without hope of personal remuneration."

"INSURANCE-WISE"

by BILL GHENT

One of the most wonderful features of the new automobile policy, effective April first, 1955, in the State of Illinois, and now being used by all the insurance companies represented by the Robertson-Ghent Agency is that change which provides for "Drive Other Car Collision Coverage."

An example of how this works would be the case where you borrow your neighbor's private passenger car to use in an emergency because your own car is in the garage for repairs and while using the borrowed car, you have an accident and tear it up! If you have collision coverage on your own car, and your neighbor doesn't have any, as is usually the case, your policy will pay for the damage to your neighbor's car! Wonderful! Well, if you ever have to use it, you'll know what I mean.

TRAILER LIABILITY COVERAGE FREE

Another change which has every-day application is the one pertaining to Trailers. Under the old type policy liability coverage was excluded completely on any Auto-Home, Office, Store, Display, or Passenger Trailer used for any purpose unless specifically described in the policy. Now, such liability coverage is no longer excluded and such a trailer is covered for no additional cost if it is designed for use with a private passenger automobile even though it isn't described in the policy.

Yes, you can hitch your car on to your neighbor's Auto-Home Trailer and while the two of you go on a fishing trip your own automobile liability insurance will protect you for the operation of both of them. Sure, it's free!

Announce Marriage of Miss Ileta Harris

Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Harris are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Ileta, to Edward Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Davis of Creal Springs.

The ceremony took place March 29 at 7 p. m. at the parsonage of Rev. Ray Beasley, pastor of the Baptist church in Creal Springs.

The bride is a graduate of the Carrier Mills Community high school with the class of 1952 and was employed as cashier at the Grand Theatre for three years.

The bridegroom returned home recently after serving two years in the armed forces.

They are now residing at 309 East Benton street in Joliet where he is employed.

YOU HAVEN'T BEEN HEARING MUCH ABOUT ME

during the past few weeks — I just didn't want to bother you while all of the other fine candidates were giving you their reasons for wanting to be your commissioners.

I'M NO SPELLBINDER—

I won't, if elected, try to rebuild Harrisburg — I wouldn't, even if I could — I just don't want to change a lot of fine things that we homefolks like.

BUT I CAN PROMISE YOU THIS—

that I'll do my level best to give Harrisburg an Honest, Economical Administration. I'll be on a sharp lookout trying to get factories and other industries to keep our men and women at work.

AND BELIEVE ME—

I'll continue doing this anyway, whether you elect me or not — because Harrisburg is my home — I love living here because of the many fine friends I have.

XXXVI
"I talked to him," Sutton said wildly. "I—he wrote me a letter two — three years ago. Lester Smithson is alive, I tell you, he's alive."
"He's dead," said Johnny bluntly. "You killed him 12 years ago. Jess knew it then, but kept quiet. But he never trusted you. He was afraid of you."
Carmichael faced his nephew, his eyes blazing like an avenging angel's. "Did you kill my son?"
Sutton backed away. "He was raised with a gold spoon in his mouth. He had everything and I—I was poor."
"Poor!" burst out Sam Cragg. "How can a guy live in the Barbizon-Waldorf and be poor?"
"I gave him an allowance," Carmichael said. He moved toward

Sutton. "I gave you money and you—you killed my son."
"I needed more money," Sutton wailed. "I—I've been wiped out. I speculated and I lost every dollar and went into debt." Sutton sank into a chair and began to sob.
Carmichael stood over him; his big body seemed to slump and he aged before Johnny's eyes. Hertha Colston moved up to him quietly and put her arms about Carmichael's shoulders.

Carmichael looked at her and smiled wanly. "They told me when he was a boy that he had a vicious streak in him. I—I thought he'd outgrown it. I would have made him my heir."
"He counted on that," Johnny said soberly. "He hired me last night to find Lester Smithson. He knew very well that I wouldn't be able to do that, but he figured it was a good thing, to throw suspicion in another direction. Blame Lester Smithson. Lester had reason to kill Jess, he figured. If he could make you believe that Lester had come back and killed Jess he was all right."

Lieutenant Madigan moved forward. He snapped a pair of handcuffs on Sutton's wrists and said, "We'll get a statement from him down at Headquarters."

The phone rang suddenly, shrilly. Everyone in the room looked at it, but no one moved toward it. Johnny finally stepped across the room and picked it up. "Yes? Who?" He winced. "Yes, he's here." He covered the mouthpiece. "Mr. Carmichael, it's Alice Cummings. She wants to talk to you."

"I have nothing to say to her," Johnny said into the phone. "Sorry, babe, Mr. Carmichael has nothing to say to you. Yes, it's me, your old friend, Johnny Fletcher. . . . He winced again. "You've cut your price to $10,000? For what. . . . Oh, the pennies and dimes, eh?"

"Let me talk to her," Hertha said suddenly.
"She wants to sell $6 worth of change for $10,000," chuckled Johnny. He handed the phone to Hertha Colston.

Hertha told Alice Cummings what to do with the coins.
Johnny and Sam shook hands with the lawyer outside the courthouse in Peekskill. "A tremendous victory, gentlemen," the attorney said enthusiastically. "I told you I could do it."

"You call a $500 fine a victory?" asked Johnny cynically.

"For forgery, grand larceny, jail-breaking. . . ."

"Cut it out," shuddered Sam.

"A victory," the lawyer said firmly. "If it wasn't for the fact that the city prosecutor is my cousin and that I just happen to play golf with the judge, it would have been five years in the State penitentiary. Six months in the county jail, at the very least."

"All right," said Johnny. "Thanks. Thanks a million. You did a great job. The next time one of us gets arrested in Peekskill, we'll give you our business."

"You'll be in good hands. And now, I must say goodbye to you, gentlemen. One of my, ah, clients has been charged with stealing a, ah, bus. Ridiculous, of course, but I must do my duty by him. Goodbye, gentlemen."

The attorney hustled away and Johnny and Sam walked toward the bus stop where they would get a bus that would take them back to Manhattan.

"I'm never going to come anywhere near Peekskill again," said Sam solemnly.

"It's a good thing Mr. Carmichael gave me that $1000 this morning, but I didn't really have to give it to me, you know. It was for finding Lester Smithson. And I never found him."

"How could you find him when he was dead?"

Johnny suddenly snorted. "Imagine that lawyer—a thousand bucks! And cash he wanted, too. Before the trial."

"I'm sorry, Johnny. We're just

Senior Class Play, 'When I Was Green,' at Carrier Mills Friday

The annual Senior class play of Carrier Mills Community high school will be presented Friday, April 22. There will be an afternoon show starting at 1:15 and the night performance is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

The play, "When I Was Green," is a farce-comedy in three acts by Guernsey LePelley.

Anne Bleacher (Joyce Harrawood), 20, pretty and sensible, thought she was helping out the family finances when she rented the garage apartment to the Elliotts, Ernestine (Gloria Williams), Trisha (Lois Hodge) and Henderson (Chester Dorris).

Jumping at conclusions, Gatesworth (Don Harvey) 16, eternally enthusiastic; Patsy (Deloris Doherty) 14, a would-be sophisticate, and Beene (Gloria McCutcheon) 12, a rugged individualist, decide that Dad (Gordon Smith), wants to get rid of the Elliotts and try to do him a favor by doing it themselves.

This same trio, following Gatesworth's motto "Give the World a Boost Through Friendship," starts meddling in Anne's love life when they hear a fragment of a telephone conversation. From it they derive that Anne has been jilted by wealthy Roger Martindale. (Max Berns) so they arrange for Roger to call. Mrs. Bleacher (Carol Felty) was frantic for a servant and Roger wanted Anne so he decided to stay—as a butler!

With Logan Ellsworth (Larry Hine), Anne's long-time suitor, Loretta (Phyllis Yocum), 45, an important widow, Sadie (Barbara Brothers) 15, a pretended gun about broke again, aren't we?"

"After we pay the bus fare we'll have about 70 cents left over," Johnny shook his head and sighed. "Well, that's too bad. I was going to mail $36 to Mr. Peabody—along with the pawn ticket for his suit. But now, I guess, I'll just mail him the pawn ticket. That's better than nothing, isn't it?"

"Yeah, but don't we owe some room rent again?"
"Sure, but what's that? I'll think of something. I always do."

"Sure, Johnny!" Sam beamed with confidence.
"I might even figure a way to pay back old Peabody that $36 it'll cost to get his suit out of hock," Johnny went on. "After all, he helped us in a time of need." Sam looked at his friend with alarm. "Sure you feel all right, Johnny?" he asked.
"Let's spend the 70 cents," Johnny said.

Citizens of Harrisburg

During my efforts to see the voters of Harrisburg I have had the pleasure of seeing old friends and making many new ones, and truly I have enjoyed the many pleasant visits with all.

I have told all of you, and I wish to repeat, that I want to be one of your Commissioners for the next four years.

Most of you know my qualifications, and the program which I advocate for our city, but for the record please let me repeat:

"I AM FOR AN HONEST AND EFFICIENT ADMINISTRATION, WORKING TOGETHER TO SECURE INDUSTRIES FOR OUR CITY, SO THAT ALL OF US, INCLUDING OUR YOUNG PEOPLE, CAN CONTINUE TO WORK AND LIVE HERE, AND ENJOY THE BENEFITS OF A PROGRESSIVE AND MODERN CITY."

I wish to particularly emphasize that since I have retired from active duty I will be able to devote all the time necessary to keep my department in the finest condition possible. I will enjoy being of service to the people of Harrisburg.

I will sincerely appreciate your support and vote next Tuesday, April 19th.

To The Voters of Harrisburg:

On Tuesday, April 19, you will go to the polls to elect four commissioners to guide the destiny of your city for the next four years.

In selecting your commissioners you should first consider their qualifications:

I have, as you well know, been a business man for the past 36 years in Harrisburg. During that time I have been in the retail and wholesale grocery business and have been and now am in the service station business.

In that time I have come in contact with many people from all walks of life and in doing so have become acquainted with their problems and needs and the needs of Harrisburg.

If elected as one of your commissioners I pledge to have an open mind to all suggestions for the betterment of our city.

IFAC Distributes 198,003 Pounds of Commodities in March

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The Illinois Public Aid Commission distributed 198,003 pounds of federal commodities to 33,254 recipients of public assistance during March, Garrett W. Keaster, executive secretary of the commission, reported today.

The commodities, consisting of beans, butter, cheese, dry milk, rice and shortening, had a retail value of $79,657 and were distributed to public aid recipients of Christian, Franklin, Hardin, Jefferson, Macoupin, Perry, Saline and Williamson counties at an estimated operational cost of $7,500.

Senate Bill to Bring Deep Freeze Law Up to Date

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Illinois legislators have taken another look at the fine print in the statute books which concerns the family deep freeze.

Looks as if you may be subject to stiff fines for operating the freezer without a license — up to $500.

Current statutes do not concern themselves with home freezers, but rather are aimed at "refrigerated warehouses."

But the law, enacted back in 1917, is a bit too broad, for it defines "refrigerated warehouses" as "any place artificially cooled . . . in which articles of food are placed and held for 30 days or more." The only exceptions are commercial locker plants.

Sen. George E. Drach (R-Springfield) has a bill in the Senate to "bring the law up to date."

"It could be considered under existing statutes that every homeowner who has a deep freeze would be required to have a license," he told the Senate.

The bill moved to passage stage without opposition.

Grandma used salt rinse to remove onion odors from her hands. Used in the bath, salt is an excellent over-all deodorant.

U. S. Opposes Limitations in Austria Treaty

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The United States is opposed to any Russian move to write provisions into an Austrian treaty forbidding that nation to join military alliances or give bases to foreign powers, officials said today.

American opposition to any limitations on Austria's independence and sovereignty was made clear to the Russians at the 1954 Big Four foreign ministers conference on Austria and Germany.

But possible new Russian efforts to impose such limitations in an apparent effort to control Austria's military future, have been reported from Soviet - Austrian treaty talks in Moscow. A joint communiqué from the talks said that Austria had given assurances it did not intend to join military alliances "or to tolerate military bases on its territory."

Additional Information Awaited
Officials said they hoped additional information from Moscow or Vienna would clear up whether the Reds would be satisfied with such a general pledge, or whether they would insist such guarantees be written into the treaty. Some authorities were of the opinion that the Soviet would want formal restrictions in a final pact.

The United States, for its part, would be willing to have Austria pledge after a treaty is signed that it will not join alliances or give military bases to foreign powers. But any treaty commitments would clearly take away the independence a treaty would be designed to give, officials said.

The administration is encouraged by recent Soviet moves on the Austrian treaty. But the feeling persists that the Reds may be setting up a neutral Austria as a pattern for the bigger East-West prize — Germany.

Rails Ask Permanent Increase in Rates

WASHINGTON, D.C. — American railroads asked the Interstate Commerce Commission Friday to make permanent a one-billion-dollar a year temporary freight rate increase due to expire Dec. 31.

The increases, authorized three years ago, amount to 15 per cent on most items and 12 per cent on coal.

They originally were scheduled to expire in February, 1954. At that time, the ICC turned down a request to make the boost permanent but did extend the increase through this year.

The railroads said their operating results last year "showed an ever greater financial need" for the increases than when authorized in April, 1952.

Out-of-Town Friends, Relatives Attend Rites for Ivor Craggs

Out of town relatives and friends who attended the funeral of Ivor Craggs, which was held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Gaskins funeral home, were Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Williams, Cloverdale, Ind., Miss Alice Mae Craggs, Indianapolis, Ind., Maynard Stobart, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley McDaniel, Johnston City, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wood, Dayton, Ohio, Raymond Matthews, Wellston, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis and daughter, Jane, Roselle, Ill., and Mrs. Garnett Hite, Mrs. Kedric Flynn, Miss Maxine Phipps and Miss Vera Musgrave, all of Evansville, Ind.

Mr. Craggs died Tuesday at 5 a. m. in the Marion Veterans hospital. Burial was in Sunset Hill cemetery.

30,000 at San Diego Get First Salk Vaccine

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — The nation's first mass inoculation of school children with the Salk vaccine began today in San Diego county.

Before the day is over, the parents of some 30,000 first and second graders will have taken their children to schools throughout the county for the first anti-polio inoculation in a two-shot program.

San Diego County's head start on the rest of the nation in administering anti-polio - killing vaccine resulted from foresight and hard work on the part of the county health officers, private physicians and registered nurses.

About 200 doctors have volunteered their services for the inoculation. More than 160 of them will be stationed at 53 previously designated schools. The remainder will stand by in case of emergency.

Almost Called Off
It was the first mass inoculation since the news that the Salk vaccine worked was announced, but it almost was called off when the shipment of 3,600 vials of the vaccine failed to arrive on schedule.

But the 360 pound "top priority" package from the Cutter Laboratory in Berkeley, Calif., arrived Friday morning aboard a United Air Lines plane. Each of the vials contains nine cubic centimeters of vaccine, enough for nine inoculations.

The children were given consent slips to take home to their parents two weeks ago. These were brought back signed last week, which gave health officers time enough to set up an inoculation organization.

Meanwhile, all available supplies of the vaccine in California were being rushed to the southern half of the state, where the polio season begins earlier.

Furniture polish gives a greater sheen if it is warmed before application. Just heat the bottle in hot water.

An Important Message to Harrisburg Voters:
ACTION Works Faster Than WAITING! I STAND FOR

ACTION

I believe that a sound, prosperous future for this community should be based on an aggressive, forward-looking plan to attract that prosperity . . . not on a "watch-and-wait" basis.

I believe in Harrisburg's future, thought out and planned out by a progressive, efficient group of city officials, on a sound moral and financial basis. I believe, too, that I am qualified to take part in this planning and this action.

THEREFORE I SEEK YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT AS A CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER OF THE CITY OF HARRISBURG IN THE GENERAL ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY.

If I am elected to this responsible position, I will promise only these things:

I will do all within my power to see that your tax dollars are properly and equitably distributed, and that the city will be operated on a sound financial platform at all times;

I will devote my time and energy to an active campaign to better the moral and financial standing of our town, to make it a town we will all be proud of, a town that will be an attractive place to live and work; and

I will not be the representative of any special interests, cliques, or organizations whose motives are dictated more by selfish gain than by benefit to Harrisburg.

I Sincerely Solicit Your Vote and Influence.

Democratic Party Leaders in Capital To Honor Rayburn
WASHINGTON (U) - Jubilant Democrats from all over the nation swarmed the capital today in their optimistic mood since they lost the White House two years ago.
A dinner tonight honoring their beloved "Mr. Sam" - Speaker Sam Rayburn - attracted a veritable who's who of the party faithful. They were headed by ex-President Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 presidential nominee.
Party leaders expressed confidence that next year they can beat anyone the Republicans run, including President Eisenhower.

Vary the morning toast with a honey topping in place of the traditional jam or jelly spread. Cream together 1-4 cup of butter or margarine, 2-3 cup of confectioner's sugar, 1 egg white and 2 table-spoons of warmed honey. Use either as spread for toast or bake it on coffee cakes and rolls.

The young women weren't identified. The old friend was Louis Johnson whom Mr. Truman ousted as defense secretary in 1950.
The former President came here from Independence, Mo. Friday to say a few words tonight at the Democratic Party's big dinner honoring Speaker Sam Rayburn. He had been away a longish time.
But it didn't take him long to get back in stride. At 7 a. m. he was pounding the sidewalks, just as he did when he lived at 1600 Pennsylvania and has done daily since his retirement from the presidency.
There was a difference, though. Instead of the two-mile pre-breakfast stroll he used to take, he rec-ed off only 1 1/4 miles this morning.
But it was the same cheerful Harry S. Truman. To reporters who asked how he felt, he wisely cracked: "I'm all right physically. I'm mentally and financially that I have trouble."

Legion and Stars To Play Final Practice Tilt

The Harrisburg Stars and Legion will wind up their pre-season practice series Sunday afternoon when they meet for the third time at the Park diamond. Next week both clubs will play out of town opponents with the Legion entertaining the Princeton, Ind., Lions here at the park.

Last Sunday's affair between the two local clubs was ended by rain at the end of eight innings with the Legion leading by a 5 to 4 count at the time. Don Wallace labored the entire game for the Stars and gave up ten hits including a long blast by Don Stout with Kennedy on first which put the Legion on top to stay.

Jim Parton paced the Legion with three hits in four tries while Griffiths, Stout and Guley laced out two each. McNew garnered the other safety for the winners. Ron Ziegler collected two of the four safeties for the Stars with Hurdles and Cowger getting the other two.

Stout and McNew shared the pitching for the Legion with Logsdon and McNew splitting the catching.

Sunday's game will probably see the same line-ups for the two teams as in previous tilts with Stout, McNew, Trammel and Kennedy being available for pitching for the Legion while Wallace, Nolen and Hughes will probably do the tossing for the Stars. Ronsky for the Legion and Cowger for the Stars will do the catching.

Help Wanted: DiMaggio Never Saw American League So Bad

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Tony Canzoneri was at the door, greeting visitors to his new Broadway restaurant when a tall, broad-shouldered fellow walked in.

Someone asked the former lightweight champion how long he had known Joe DiMaggio.

"Longer than I fought," rasped Canzoneri. "I was training in San Francisco for a fight with Joe Glick, and one day Lefty O'Doul comes to the gym—I worked at Dolph Thomas' place—and he has this guy with him."

"Tony," he says to me, "I want you to meet Joe DiMaggio. He's going to be a great ball-player." DiMaggio, long one of the best dressed men, was immaculate in a costly brown suit. Except for a sprinkling of gray through his hair, he looked as if he could move into center field for the Yankees today.

"I weigh four pounds less than what was my best playing weight," the old Yankee Clipper smiled. "But the shoulders went on me ... and that did it."

Why it is, a fellow sitting with him asked, that DiMaggio, one of the great players of the game, has not remained in baseball in some capacity?

"I don't want an office job," replied Joe, currently weighing business propositions. "I don't like working eight hours inside every day. Managing, coaching, scouting and that stuff isn't my line. I always said that when I quit playing I'd quit baseball."

DI MAGGIO WOULD LIKE to run a boys' camp, have something to do with an operation like Little League baseball.

A DiMaggio, it was observed, could certainly do baseball, especially the sagging and rather sick American League, a carload of good in some capacity.

"I never remembered the league being this bad," he said. "When we used to win the pennant by 19 or 20 games, we were beating good clubs. The rest were bunched. They had good players. Now it's a two-club race. The rest of them are in bad shape. And if either the Yankees or Indians run away, it will be terrible."

It seemed that DiMaggio didn't rate the White Sox as highly as some others, but he wasn't asked about them. He had the floor, so why butt in?

The National League has four or five good clubs," he went on. "Take Cincinnati. Gabe Paul has done a real good job. He made his best move hiring Birdie Tebbets. Provided he is a smart baseball man, there are only two things a manager has to have. He has to know when to take the pitcher out. He must know how to handle men. Tebbets was a smart catcher, and certainly knows when to yank a pitcher. He's good with men, too."

WHEN THE JACKIE Robinson-Walter Alston rhabar was brought up, DiMaggio shrugged.

"I never was on a club where there was trouble like that," he recalled. "But it won't hurt the club as long as it is a 'loner' feud. It's when you get those cliques that it hurts."

"Why, you know a ballplayer plays for money, not for likes or dislikes. It's like a fighter feuding with his manager. That doesn't mean he won't fight well."

Someone asked DiMaggio if he had seen any good young ballplayers.

"Players are coming along very slowly these days," he said. "I don't know of one on the west coast. The Little League is the game's main hope. It'll start to show up in four, maybe five, more years."

Proprietor Canzoneri asked if DiMaggio would pose for a picture with a couple of kids.

"Sure," Joe said.

This is Joe DiMaggio's fourth year out of baseball and he remains as popular as he was the day he went away.

54 Racing Cars In Field for Memorial '500'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Fifty-four low-slung, record-seeking cars in the field today for the 39th annual 500-mile Memorial Day Indianapolis auto race, but there wasn't a foreign combination among them.

Speedway officials, who expected several other entries, said nominations postmarked by Friday midnight would be accepted for the time trials, beginning May 14.

The 33 fastest cars make up the starting line-up May 30.

Two new creations and a powerful, though unlikely eight-cylinder Novi, were among the latest arrivals.

Heavy-footed Troy Ruttman, winner of the 1952 grind who now makes his home in Houston, Tex., was nominated by industrialist Lou Welch to pilot a Novi — the same type car in which Chet Miller rode to new qualifying records in 1952, a year before the car carried him to his death here.

Pat Flaherty, Chicago, will drive for M. Dunn, Detroit, and one-legged Cal Niday, Pacoima, Calif., was entered by Arthur Lathrop, Indianapolis.

Sportsman Joe Thorne, Las Vegas, Nev., entered a new four-wheel drive roadster, the only six-cylinder car in the pack. No driver was nominated.

Murrell Belanger, Crown Point, Ind., who had the winning car with Lee Wallard the chauffeur in 1951, registered the other new racer. Farmer-driver Art Cross, LaPorte, Ind., who came home fifth as a rookie in 1952 and second the following year, is the driver.

Rookie Leroy Warriner, Indianapolis, was entered by Rotary Engineering Corp., Indianapolis.

Other racers, with drivers yet to be assigned, were nominated by Pete Salemi, Cleveland; A. E. Dean, Paramount, Calif.; and Ray Brady, Norristown, Pa.

Dean entered the car which Jimmy Bryan steered to second place last year. Bryan, who subsequently captured the national driving title, previously was nominated for a brand-new car.

Ridgway stopped Galatia's baseball team, 8-2, Thursday afternoon in a nine-inning fracas played on the Gallatin county school's diamond.

The Bearcats took a 2-0 lead in the second with a double by team captain Lawrence Imboden driving in both runs. Ridgway rallied in the third, scoring four, and adding two more in each of the fifth and sixth frames.

It was the second loss of the week for the Bearcats who suffered a 6-0 setback at McLeansboro Wednesday afternoon. Don Maulding, Fox hurler, limited the

Holly Mims Wins Roundly-Booed Bout Over Jones

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If Holly Mims of Washington, D. C., hopes to move into a middleweight title fight, he'll have to improve greatly on his shoddy though winning performance over Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., in their roundly-boomed bout Friday night.

Mindful that it takes two to tango the dissatisfied crowd of several hundred expected Mims, No. 4 midweight contender and 9-5 favorite, to force some action even if Jones was unable or unwilling to do so.

The little flurry of fighting there was in the nationally televised and broadcast match came in the final three rounds after referee Zach Clayton had warned the boxers to "step it up" for the third time. The 25-year-old Mims was responsible practically for all of this action and it paved the way for his unanimous decision triumph.

The bout was so lethargic by the end of seven rounds that State Athletic Commissioner Alfred Klein stepped to the ring apron and exhorted the boxers to "get in there and fight."

Jones and Mims each weighed 157 1/2 for their 10-round meeting. The victory was Mims' 39th against 12 losses and five draws. The setback was the 23rd for Jones against 40 triumphs and eight draws.

OUT FOR SIXTH — Philadelphian — (NEA) — Robin Roberts of the Phillies has been in the 20-game win circle for the past five years.

Invading 'Cats to a single hit. This was a double by Tate.

Next Tuesday Galatia will entertain Carrier Mills and on Wednesday the club will travel to Crab Orchard.

Herb Score, Indians' Rookie Strikeout King, Hurls Tribe To 7-3 Win Over Tigers

By United Press
Herb Score's big league debut was pronounced a success today and it may have been a bad omen for the New York Yankees that the rookie southpaw's first victory enabled the Cleveland Indians to take over undisputed possession of first place in the American League.

Score, the fabulous rookie strikeout king up from Indianapolis in the American Association, hurled the Tribe into first place Friday with a 7-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers while the Yankees handed the Boston Red Sox their first loss of the campaign, 6-4. The Indians have won three straight games while every other AL team has lost at least one game.

The Brooklyn Dodgers hammered out three home runs to beat the New York Giants, 6-3, and hand the world champions their third straight setback of the new season in the only other big league game played. Philadelphia at Pittsburgh was postponed because of wet grounds and the other clubs were not scheduled.

Fits of Wildness
Score, who had a 22-5 record and struck out 330 batters for Indianapolis had fits of wildness and walked nine batters. But he proved his mettle with runners on the base paths, struck out nine, allowed only seven hits and left 10 Tigers stranded on base.

The Tigers scored a run in the first on two singles and a sacrifice fly and added another in the second on three walks and another sacrifice fly. But they failed to crack through the handsome southpaw again until the eighth inning when the Indians had a 7-2 lead.

The Indians picked up one run in the third and went ahead, 3-2, in the fifth with two runs produced by two singles, Al Rosen's second sacrifice fly of the game and a single by Ralph Kiner. They added another run in the seventh and three more in the eighth. Rookie Frank Lary was the losing pitcher as the Tigers dropped their third decision in four games.

Bob Turley, the key man in the Yankees' 18-player winter deal with the Baltimore Orioles, also came through in brilliant fashion in his 1955 debut. Turley yielded three homers—two by Faye Throneberry and one by Jackie Jensen—but struck out 10, walked only two and was touched for only five hits.

GOD at home

God is everywhere! And yet we speak of a church as God's House.

Well, man is everywhere. His planes soar above the clouds, his miles tunnel through the earth, his rails span mountains and plains, his ships ply the seven seas.

And yet, every man cherishes the one place he calls home. He cherishes it not for its location or appearance, but for the love and companionship he has experienced there.

In similar spirit man has thought it no blasphemy to call each church the House of God. For He Who made man in His own image must feel the same compelling attraction for the scene of His communion with those He loves.

The greatest honor you can bestow on a friend is to invite him into your home. Each hour of worship God invites you into His.

Sunday School Lesson

'Rehoboam, King of Judah'

II Chronicles 10:6-17

GOLDEN TEXT: "If any of you lack wisdom, let Him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him." (James 1:15)

INTRODUCTION: "With this lesson we return to the Old Testament where we left off in June of last year. We are to study the history of the southern part of Israel, beginning with the reign of Rehoboam. He succeeded King Solomon.

Solomon was a great king, but he became weak in his latter years. He imported beautiful women into his kingdom and tried to satisfy their religious desires by erecting altars and false gods for them. He placed heavy taxes upon the people of his kingdom which made life difficult for them.

When Rehoboam came upon the throne, the people hoped for relief from their tax burden. Rehoboam had a choice to make, and he made the wrong choice. He needed God's guidance and did not seek it. How like so many folks today.

I GOOD ADVICE (V. 6-7)

Rehoboam sought advice from some of the elder men who had worked with Solomon. They gave him sound advice: "If thou be kind to this people, and please them, and speak good words to them, then they will be thy servants forever."

These were mature men of sound thinking. Rehoboam needed such counsel. He had not been fortunate in having good background. Like many of us today, his dad had done a poor job of rearing him.

II POOR ADVICE (V. 8-11)

We take the advice that pleases us most. Rehoboam asked advice from some young, inexperienced men. They advised him to increase the taxes, make the people's burden heavier and to chastise with scorpions instead of whips.

Young, foolish men like to show their authority. Be the "big shot," seems to be their philosophy. They swagger and strut and throw their chest out. They like to "toss their weight around." We see it all too often today. The more mature men know the foolishness of such actions.

III THE WRONG DECISION (V. 12-15)

Life is largely made up of choices. Sometimes a seemingly unimportant choice will lead to disaster. We need God's leadership in all decisions, large and small.

Rehoboam was a capable young man. He should have known better than to have taken the advice of the young men. When he did so, he brought the wrath of the people down upon his head.

CONCLUSION: (V. 16-17) The result of Rehoboam's wrong decision was the division of the kingdom. The people should have been united. It is always sad when a leader chooses wrong and divides his people. Rehoboam continued to rule over the two tribes of the southern kingdom and Jeroboam ruled over the ten tribes to the north.

God blessed Rehoboam as long as he served Him and sought His counsel. The same is true with all people today. Let us follow Him daily.

—TALK OF THE NATION—

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) Which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
